Introduction

According to the American Indian Higher Education Consortium (AIHEC), TCUs “operate more than 75 campuses in 16 states ... and serve students from well more than 250 federally recognized Indian tribes.” Many of the colleges are located on or near tribal lands in rural locations with little economic development. Although not all students who attend tribal colleges are Native American, the vast majority are. This report aims to share a narrative of students who attend tribal colleges.

The analyses performed for Preserving Culture and Planning for the Future were far more extensive than could be covered in the printed report; thus, this supplement provides a full set of analyses that were examined during the development of the report. This methods supplement also describes the data sources used. If you have any questions about the analyses or results in the report or this supplement, please contact Kyle Lovseth (lovseth@cccse.org) or Mike Bohlig (bohlig@cccse.org).

METHODS

Data Sources

The data used in the analyses presented in the special report and this methodology supplement come from the Survey of Entering Students (SENSE) and the Community College Survey of Student Engagement (CCSSE) surveys as well as the tribal college SENSE special focus module (12 items) and the CCSSE additional item set (15 items) administered with these surveys. Twenty-five tribal colleges administered SENSE in fall 2017 and 22 tribal colleges administered CCSSE in spring 2018.

Collectively, the 12 special focus module items and 15 additional items will be referred through this document as “supplemental items.” The supplemental items were administered only at the tribal colleges that participated in the 2017 SENSE and 2018 CCSSE administrations. A total of 1,094 students responded to the SENSE items and 2,047 students responded to the CCSSE items.

Comparison data include Native American students attending non-tribal colleges. Because the supplemental items sets were not administered at the non-tribal colleges, comparisons will be limited to items from the main SENSE or CCSSE surveys. The tribal college student experience is a unique one, which this comparison illustrates. Furthermore, the characteristics of students who attend tribal colleges are different from those of the comparison group: tribal college students are more likely to be enrolled full-time; are more likely to be 25 years or older; and, of those who responded to CCSSE, are more likely to be female.

Analyses

The analyses conducted for the main report and this supplement include simple frequencies, cross-tabulations (crosstabs) of pairs of items. All analyses were conducted in SAS 9.4.

Part 1: SENSE Survey Data

Data presented in this part of the methodology supplement are from the SENSE 2017 three-year cohort. As noted in the data sources section above, the responses to the tribal college special focus module items include only the 25 tribal colleges that administered the survey in 2017. The comparison group of Native American students at non-tribal colleges included all Native American students in the full 2017 three-year cohort.

The 25 tribal colleges that participated in this survey are listed in the table below.

SENSE Demographics

The following are demographic frequencies for all entering students who completed SENSE .

There are two comparison groups: 1) Students at tribal colleges that participated in the 2017 SENSE administration. 2) American Indian or Native American students at non-tribal colleges in the 2017 SENSE 3-year cohort. Demographic frequencies for all students are presented, as well as demographic frequencies broken out by enrollment status, age (traditional vs. non-traditional), sex, and race/ethnicity.

Following are frequencies of responses by entering students for all supplemental items administered to tribal colleges. Additionally, frequencies for all supplemental items are broken out by enrollment status, age (traditional vs. non-traditional), and sex. Breakouts by race and ethnicity were not conducted because of low n-values for non-native students at tribal colleges.

Part 2: CCSSE Survey Data

Data presented in this part of the methodology supplement are from the CCSSE 2018 cohort. As noted in the data sources section at the beginning of this document, the responses to the tribal college special focus module include only the 22 tribal colleges that administered the survey in 2018. The comparison group of Native American students at non-tribal colleges include all Native American students in the full 2018 two-year consortium, even if they identified as 2 or more races/ethnicities, as long as one of those races/ethnicities was Native American. (Note, the refreshed version of CCSSE was first administered in 2017 so in 2018 the cohort consisted of just two administrations)

The 22 tribal colleges that participated in this survey are listed in the table below.

1	Aaniiih Nakoda College (MT)

CCSSE Demographics

Following are demographic frequencies for all students who completed CCSSE. There are two comparison groups: 1) Students at tribal colleges that participated in the 2018 CCSSE administration. 2) American Indian or Alaska Native students at non-tribal colleges in the 2018 CCSSE cohort. Demographic frequencies for all students are presented, as well as demographic frequencies broken out by enrollment status, age (traditional vs. non-traditional), gender identity, and race/ethnicity. Students who selected more than two races/ethnicities, but at least one of those races/ethnicities was Native American or Alaska Native were included in the native students at non-native colleges comparison group. Finally, if a student indicated that they would Prefer Not to Respond, but they also indicated that they were American Indian or Alaska Native, that student was included in the native students at non-native colleges comparison group.

Following are frequencies of responses for all supplemental items administered to tribal colleges. Additionally, frequencies for all supplemental items are broken out by enrollment status, age (traditional vs. non-traditional), and gender identity.
